FOX FUNNIES and CROW CALLS

I was standing in my father's outer office when he emerged from his examining room with a patient. "How much do I owe you, doctor?" he asked.

"Twenty dollars," said my father. "You can pay me now or send a check."

"But, doctor, that's a lot of money. I can't pay as much as that!"

"You could have gone to another doctor, someone less expensive!" my father said.

"Less expensive?" the patient said indignantly. "Listen, when it comes to my health, money is no object!"

Bob Hickey, Los Angeles, Calif.

We were coming out of the supermarket the other day when Mom ran into a former neighbor. "How are all your sons?" Mom asked her. "Oh, they've grown up to be wonderful men. The first one's an artist; the second, a poet; and the third writes books."

"I'm so happy for you," said Mom. "And what do you do?"

"I have a part-time job. Between my husband's store and me, we manage to support the three of them."

Wanda Hartmann, Elgin, N.D.

DINER: Waiter, do you have frogs' legs?

WAITER: No, sir! It's my tight pants that make me walk like this!

John Hemlaw, Winnipeg, Manitoba

FOX: Did you eat all the candy that was in this dish?

CROW: I didn't touch one!

FOX: But the dish was filled this morning. Now there's only one!

CROW: Hey, now! That's the one I didn't touch.

Debbie Mack, Grantsburg, Wis.

WHY . . .

. . . did the elephant tiptoe to the medicine cabinet? Because, says Don MacIsaac of Sudbury, Ont., he didn't want to wake up the sleeping pills!

. . . did the boy throw the clock out of the window? asks Michelle Peterson of Syracuse, N.Y. He wanted to see how time flies!

. . . is peanut butter crazy stuff? questions Carmen Lanclos of Opelousas, La. Because it's nutty!

* * *

MARTIAN BOY: Mom, can you hurry up and make me a sandwich!

MARTIAN MOTHER: Goodness gracious, can't you wait a minute? I have only four hands!

Susan Pfeuffer, Chicago

"Close the door!" cried the mayonnaise to the refrigerator. "Don't you see I'm dressing!"

Joseph Lenius, Chicago

* * *

HEATHER: Willy, surely you don't believe anyone can tell the future by looking at cards.

WILLY: My mother can! She can take one look at my report card and tell just what will happen when my father comes home!

Patrick Skelly, Minneapolis, Minn.

One of my duties as an assistant librarian is to examine the children's hands when they enter. As little Jimmy showed me his palms, I had to remark, "Your hands are dirty. Did you ever see my hands like that?"

"No, ma'am," Jimmy answered, "but maybe your father did!"

Ellen Maybank, Brooklyn, N.Y.

I had just pulled into the driveway when, as I stepped out of my car, I noticed our neighbors' small son fleeing down the street. I looked questioningly at my boy Howie, holding a suspicious rock in his hand. "Son, did you throw one of those at your friend?"

"Yeah, Dad, but he started it!"

"Then why didn't you go tell your mother?"

"Why? Do you think her arm's better than mine?"

J. K. M., Salt Lake City

Two tramps ran into one another on the street, and one of them boasted that he'd gotten a dollar from the town banker when he rang his doorbell. The second was surprised. "I would've gotten at least five."

"I don't know," said the first one. "He's not as rich as he used to be, I'm afraid."

"What makes you say that?"

"Well, when he opened the door, I could look into the living room. I saw his wife and daughter playing on one piano!"

Gordon Fox, Baltimore, Md.
